AN ICELANDIC FESTIVAL.—The Cologne Gazette says: "Iceland has in contemplation next year to celebrate the thousandth year since the settlement of the island, (1874.) As early as 860 a Dane named Gardar was drifted from Scotland in stormy weather northward to an unknown coast. He wintered in the country, and called it Gardarsholm. Shortly thereafter a Norwegian, Nadod, was also drifted there. In 868 the island was visited by another Norwegian, Floke, who remained for a year there, and called it Island. Ingolf, driven into exile on account of cruelties perpetrated by the Norwegian King Hagar Haarsager, proceeded in 874 with his foster-brother to Iceland, and there founded the earliest settlements. These were near the place where Reikjavik, the capital of the island, now stands. Others followed the two brothers, and the island was soon inhabited. From Iceland, Greenland, as is known, was discovered, and from it hardy Norse seamen, about the year 1000, reached that part of the coast of the American Continent now forming Massachusetts. It is, consequently, not without some historical justification that the celebrated Norwegian violinist, Ole Bull, has been collecting subscriptions at concerts among his countrymen to erect a monument to the Norwegian, Lief Erikson, the first discover of America, as the latter touched American ground from 400 to 500 years before Columbus and there are indications that the Genoese was not only acquainted with the voyages of the Norse sailors to America, but that they were not without influence on his plan and its execution."

OUR JUDICIARY.

STATISTICS WHICH REQUIRE THAT JUDGES SHALL BE APPOINTED.

[From the N. Y. Times.]

In his pamphlet on the pending amendment to the Judiciary article of the Constitution of New York, Mr. Dorman B. Eaton presents some startling statistics from the criminal records of the State. We make the following extracts:

Excellent tests of different judicial methods might be found in comparisons of the number of appeals, new trials, and reversals in civil cases, but they are more especially to be found in the relative vigor of the criminal administration as illustrated by a contrast of the ratios of dismissals, indictments, long and short sentences, with the whole number of arrests. Fortunately there are some criminal statistics which enable us, within narrow limits, to fairly test the facts whether the elective method has in practice been attended with such results as on theory and principle might reasonably be expected. When the Convention of 1867 was about to meet, the need was felt of statistics which should more fully disclose the facts of our judicial situation; and they were ordered and were obtained more or less perfect from thirty counties, and they extend over the period from 1840 to 1866. They show for each of these counties the respective populations at the dates, the number of criminals in each county and year arrested and "brought before the Court," and the number "tried." It will be appreciated that the ratio of those tried to those arrested and brought before court for trial, furnish significant indication of the vigor and fidelity of the criminal administration at respective dates and in the counties to which they relate. To prevent expanding into too many figures, I will take an equal number of inland counties, where population has not much increased, and of counties embracing cities and villages where the increase has been large, and will make the comparison in each between the years 1846 and 1847 at the end of the appointive method, and the years 1866 and 1867, being the last years covered by the statistics. The earlier population stated in the returns may be that of 1845 to 1848, whichever is given, but the latter is the census returns of 1865, when the whole State population was 3,832,043. (See Convention Manual, 1867, Part II, statistics, pp. 305 to 320.) I begin with

ERIE COUNTY.

Population in 1845, 78,635; in 1865, population, 157,150.

	Brought Before Court		Tried.
In 1847	116	In 1847	52
In 1848	165	In 1848	65
Total	281	Total	117
In 1865	232	In 1865	61
In 1866	566	In 1866	40
Total	798	Total	101

Hence, in this growing and commercial county the facts are that when the elective experiment began, almost one-half of those arrested. 117 out 281, were brought to trial; but that when the experiment had been eighteen years in operation, less than one in seven—that is, 101 out of 798—of those brought before the Court were ever tried!

In the twenty years from 1847 to 1867, 4,260 criminals were brought before the Courts, of which 1,257 only were tried, being on an average of about one in four, which shows how steady must have been the decline of efficiency from a trial of one-half to less than one-seventh under the elective experiment. It will be further noticed that while the population has not doubled, the lawless classes which it was necessary to arrest have increased nearly threefold, though the number brought to trial is positively less than eighteen years ago! Nothing prospers like crime never brought to trial. Can there be a more decisive indication of a miserable judicial administration?

Let us next consider

ALBANY COUNTY.

Population in 1847, 77,268; population in 1865, 113,504.

	Brought Before Court		Tried.
In 1847	40	In 1846	20
In 1849	83	In 1847	20
Total	123	Total	40
In 1865	187	In 1865	18
In 1866	108	In 1866	29
Total	295	Total	47

This shows that in Albany county the proportion of those tried to those arrested has fallen from about one-third to little more than one-seventh in eighteen years. In that ratio, stealing, gambling, bribing and perjury at the capital are made more safe, and the impurity of unfaithful District Attorneys and Justices is in the same ratio enlarged.

From these two more growing counties, each with a large city, one at the west and one in the middle of the State, let us proceed to a county on the opposite border, one of which the increase of population has been about the average—to

SUFFOLK COUNTY.

Population in 1845, 34,570; population in 1865, 42,867.

	Brought Before Court.		Tried.
In 1847	9	In 1847	4
In 1848	6	In 1848	2
Total	15	Total	6
In 1865	17	In 1865	7
In 1866	23	In 1866	3
Total	40	Total	10

This shows that in eighteen years the ratio of those tried to those brought before the Court has fallen from a little more than one-half to one-fourth; but it also shows that while population is increased by a little more than a fourth, the causes of criminal arrest have more than doubled; that is, Suffolk county has become a far safer place for criminals, and a far more dangerous place for honest people.

We will next take a county in an opposite quarter of the State, where there has been nearly the same ratio of increase of population—that is,

LEWIS COUNTY.

Population in 1848, 20,219; population in 1865, 27,840.

	Brought Before Court		Tried.
In 1847	5	In 1847	3
In 1848	4	In 1848	4
Total	9	Total	7
In 1865	7	In 1865	2
In 1866	8	In 1866	3
Total	15	Total

Hence we see that while a murderer or a horse thief in 1847 had but seven-ninths of a chance of escaping trial in the county of Lewis, the opportunity of that kind of escape had so improved as to be three to one in 1866. Is that the sort of gain the farmers of Lewis county expected of an elective Judiciary?

Let us next examine a couple of almost exclusively agricultural counties, where there has been almost no increase of population, and where, therefore, it cannot be said that the excess or the impunity of crime has been due to importation or to municipal corruption, and first,

SCHOHARIE COUNTY.

Population in 1845, 32,488, population in 1865, 33,353.

	Brought Before Court		Tried.
In 1847	15	In 1847	15
In 1848	32	In 1848	27
Total	47	Total	42
In 1865	48	In 1865	21
In 1866	65	In 1866	27
Total	113	Total	48

And so among the honest farmers on the fresh hillsides of Schoharie, the results of voting for Judges have been that the old chances of 12 to 47 that an arrested sheep-stealer, or marauding burglar from the city, would be tried, have fallen in eighteen years to about three to one that he will not be tried at all, to say nothing of the criminal's brighter hopes of never being convicted, if tried. And while, population has been almost stationary, the new system has allowed the number of criminals requiring to be brought before the courts to become more than two and a half times as numerous. And lastly,

WASHINGTON COUNTY.

Population in 1845, 40,554; population in 1864, 46,244.

	Brought Before Court		Tried.
In 1847	12	In 1847	7
In 1848	36	In 1848	11
Total	48	Total	18
In 1865	36	In 1865	8
In 1866	32	In 1866	4
Total	68	Total	12

Here again is the same sickening record, repeated in country and city, among stationary and among increasing populations, in the old counties along the sea, in those of the interior, and in the young counties on the Western lakes, alike—of criminals increasing and their trials decreasing—of the idle, vicious, and violent classes requiring arrests, multiplying faster than honest law-abiding people—of decisive proofs of the dangerous inefficiency and criminal connivance of elected judicial officers—of a people year by year involved in greater perils and bearing greater burdens as the penalty for the foolish works of their own hands. The road leads plainly to perdition; and on all its dark borders, the hand-writing may be read upon the wall, admonishing us of the ebbing tide of civilization and the advance of barbarism all along the line.

If it were possible to get at the complete facts, there is reason to believe the statistics of crime committed and unpunished in great cities would give a still more fearful admonition. The alarming increase of such crime in our cities is well known, but the necessary records for such comparison do not exist. All well-informed persons know how much fewer are the crimes, and how much prompter criminal justice is administered, in Boston, where all the Judges and Justices have at all times been appointed, than here, in Brooklyn, or in Philadelphia, where they have been elected. There is, however, one kind of instructive comparison possible between the crimes committed in New York, and those committed in another great city of the same race, but having an appointed Judiciary. Both New York and London have for some years had a police force with an organization and discipline nearly the same, and each force makes an annual report of criminals arrested under classifications in several particulars identical. Having at hand the London Metropolitan Police report for the year 1870, which was an average year, and the New York reports for several years, I can make that comparison. It is necessary to select the New York report for 1869, by reason of the dissolution of the Metropolitan District in 1870. The London report shows that the whole number of persons arrested was:

In 1869	72,951	Convicted in 1869	42,691
In 1870	71,269	Convicted in 1870	46,193

It will be observed that the ratio of the convicted, being fifty-nine per cent. one year and sixty-four the other, is more than twice as great as the ratio of those even tried in all our counties.

Turning now to our Metropolitan report for 1869, we find it stated that the whole number arrested from 1860 to 1869, was 800,489, being a frightful average of 89,848 each year! And the New York City Police report for 1870, made after the City was separated from the district, shows that the number of arrests in New York City alone for that year was 75,692—1,000,000 in New York containing more requiring arrest than 3,000,000 in London—and it is hardly better since! Our disgraceful neglect of criminal returns does not enable me to state with any degree of accuracy what proportion of those arrested are brought to any form of trial or are convicted. The report of the New York Prison Association for 1873, without showing the summary convictions, declares that only 805 convictions took place in courts of record—that is not one out of 100 arrested. It is quite clear that the proportion is less even than in the country districts, and not one-fourth as great as in London. For instance, of the 84,514 arrests in 1871, we know that of the disposition of 4,541 no information can be gained; and that no less than 25,814 were summarily discharged by our partisan-elected Police Justices. What better results can be expected of judicial officers compelled to seek their election, for short terms, in pot-house caucuses held in little city district grog-shops—of men, nearly every one of whom being uninstructed in the law, were ward politicians by trade and jobbers in party influence, if no worse. At this moment even, the more prominent of these partisan Police Justices, by each of whom 9,300 prisoners are disposed of each year—being thirty each day—instead of giving themselves to the discharge of such grave duties, appear as local delegates in a party convention! If, now, we compare the details of the causes of arrest in London and New York, the humiliating record will be no less against us. They are as follows:

London.		New York.
Arson	13	Arson	47
Bigamy	18	Bigamy	16
Burglary	134	Burglary	597
Disorderly conduct	3,829	Disorderly conduct	9,376
Gambling	7,881	Gambling	*115
Keeping brothels	81	Keep'g disord. house	91
Murder	8	Murder	46
Robbery	124	Robbery	207

*I fear this small number only indicates default of making arrests, almost never followed by convictions.

In London there were sixty-seven cases classified under the head of manslaughter, shooting, stabbing, poisoning, etc., which cannot be directly compared with any crimes so classified in New York; but as against these and covering such cases of savage crime, we have of "felonious assault," 817; and of "assaults and battery," 5,618.

The various grades of theft and forging are not so classified as to be comparable, but the aggregate of those in New York exceed those in London. The vagrancy of London greatly exceeds our own; but while the great majority of our vagrants are at once discharged, in London 4,397 were convicted and only 1,918 were discharged. Thus not only in the most favorable instances are the crimes of one million of our people equal to those of the three millions of London, but in the higher grades they are many fold more numerous.

THE CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

PACIFIC RAILWAY MATTERS.

OTTAWA (Ont.), Oct. 23.—The Governor-General opened the second session of the Dominion Parliament in due form. In a speech he said he had caused Parliament to be summoned at the earliest possible moment after receipt of the report of the Commissioners appointed to inquire into Canadian Pacific Railroad matters. The evidence obtained would be laid before them, and deserved careful consideration. The Canadian Pacific Company, he said, having been unable to make the financial arrangements necessary for the construction of the road, had executed a surrender of their charter, which had been accepted by him. "You will, I trust, feel yourselves called upon to take steps to secure an early commencement and vigorous prosecution of the construction of that railway, and thus carry out in good faith the arrangement made with the province of British Columbia. Measures for this purpose will be submitted for your consideration."

A dispatch has been received by the Governor General from the Imperial Government, approving the prorogation of the House in August, and the appointment of the Royal Commission for taking evidence regarding the charges made by the opposition in connection with the Pacific Railroad scandal.

It is understood that the report of the Royal Commissioners, which will be submitted to both Houses, exculpates the Government from all charges contained in Huntington's indictment. McDonald will leave Parliament to take whatever action it may think proper in the premises, whereupon it is expected that McKenzie, leader of the opposition, will move a resolution containing the gist of the petition presented to his Excellency on the 14th inst. It is believed, in view of the confirmation of Lord Dufferin's course by the Imperial Government, that debate upon the constitutional question will be brief.

While the committee was sitting a message from the Council was received, and the Speaker having taken the chair, the Council announced that that it was ready to meet the House in conformity with the joint resolution calling a convention for the election of Territorial officers.

The Committee of the Whole reported progress, and the Council having taken seats within the bar of the House, it was moved and carried that the Joint Convention adjourn to meet to-morrow at noon.

This motion caused such a shock that the clock in the House stopped.

The Council having retired, the House again resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole, Mr. Van Vleet in the chair, for the further consideration of H. B. No. 47, and continued sitting until 1:30 P. M., after which the House adjourned till to-morrow.

THE TERRITORIES.

Walla Walla is importing cabbage from Powder river valley.

The "ring" organized by the flouring mills in Walla Walla valley, has been broken.

The Walla Walla and Columbia River Railroad has suspended operations for a time, at least.

Parties are in the Walla Walla valley buying large numbers of horned cattle, sheep and horses for Idaho and Montana ranches.

Major Eggleston distributed about $20,000 among the soldiers at Walla Walla last week, and on his return from Fort Colville, will pay out as much more.

A discharged soldier named Dalton was arrested last week at Walla Walla on a complaint accusing him of forging Major Eggleston's name to a $300 note.

Some of the ladies have been circulating petitions in Olympia, praying for the Legislature to strike out the word "male" in the statute regulating the qualifications of voters.

The Knappton works will be sold at Sheriff sale by J. H. White [illegible] county on the 3d day of December. [illegible] will not interfere with the business, which will go on the same as now, but will [illegible] up the embarrassments which have [illegible] an obstacle to prosperity over there.

The Rev. P. E. Hyland, late of St. Paul's Episcopal Church at Port Townsend having resigned his rectorate at the latter place, is temporarily sojourning in Olympia as Chaplain in the Legislature, and is also supplying the pulpit of the Episcopal Church. The vestry of the church so far has been unable to secure a regular minister.

On the evening of the 20th inst. Thad. S. Barr, of Gray's river, had a fearful encounter with a large bear of the black species, in the vicinity of his house. After discharging the only load in his gun bruin met him "hand to hand" in the conflict, but with the help of his noble dog and a sheath knife he managed to make a corpus of the ugly customer, and escape with only a few slight scars and some torn clothes.

Utah is just now having a great excitement in regard to iron mines, so much so that an expedition, under an expert in iron ores, is traversing the country south of Salt Lake, making iron mines the object of search. That Territory seems to be possessed of great amounts of iron ore and coal of good quality that should be utilized at once, and the Great Basin should make its own iron, and thus avoid the cost of transportation.

The bill creating San Juan county has passed both houses of the Washington Territory Legislature, and only awaits the signature of the Governor to become a law. The new county comprises all the islands late in dispute with Great Britain. The bill appoints a board of three County Commissioners, who are authorized to appoint all other county and precinct officers. It also assesses upon the new county one thousand dollars of the Whatcom county indebtedness.

The Olympia Courier, of last Monday, says: "A little two-year son of Mr. Gustave Rosenthal, of this place, met a terrible death to day. A tub of hot water had been placed on the floor to be used for the weekly washing, and the little one being at play near by lost his balance and fell back into the water, scalding his right side from head to foot. After lingering three or four hours in intense agony, during which time everything the most skillful physicians could devise was done, his sufferings were ended by the intervention of death."

AN ELEGANT SHIPWRECK.

A SHIPLOAD OF PASSENGERS DUMPED INTO THE SEA WITH A WHOLE MENAGERIE OF TIGERS, ELEPHANTS, ETC.

The news of the wreck of the steamer Agra off Colombo, has already been telegraphed to the press. The details of the disaster are quite exciting. It appears, according to a letter to the London Times of the 4th inst., that the captain, to save fuel, sought anchorage outside the port.

"The pilot let go the anchor too near a well-known rock, and the sea, tumbling in as it knows now to tumble off Galle in the south-west monsoon, caused the chain cable to part, and the vessel to surge heavily on the rock. The work of destruction was rapid; those on board were startled by the metallic sound of the ripping iron sides of the steamer as her hull was torn in shreds by the piercing rock. There was no time to be lost. The vessel was fast filling, and to save passengers' luggage was hopeless. They had barely time to escape into the boats as the seas came tumbling over the sides, sweeping everything before them, carrying away one poor invalid sailor, and bursting open the cages and dens of an extensive menagerie on board, going home for the Zoological gardens. The escape and striking out amid the waves of a crowd of tigers, elephants, etc., and their roars and screams added to the terror of the wretched passengers. One elephant managed to swim ashore, as did one of the inhabitants of the adjacent coast, who are said to be living in a state of siege, not daring to venture outside their barricaded doors."

OREGON.

Work on the State Capitol building at Salem has been discontinued for the season.

The Klaskanine farm will produce over one hundred bushels of assorted apples for market this year, from fifty young trees.

A jocky club has been formed in Grand Ronde valley, and on the 11th, 12th, 13th, and 14th days of November, the fall races will come off. A grand time may be relied on.

A Chinese firm of Astoria have purchased and equipped a sloop, Hung Mung, with which they scoot about the harbor, and in and out, here and there, anywhere a Chinaman wants to go.

Hayden Gearhart, County Surveyor of Clatsop county, has been engaged in [illegible] boundaries and defining lines, for the [illegible] of the new and extensive cannery being established at Tongue Point by M[illegible] Booth & Co. These works will be the largest on the river.

Mr. Turpin's party of surveyors, [illegible] in running the lines of the Cornelius and [illegible] Wagon Road, have reached Moffit's bridge, about four miles from Astoria. The 89th mile post was located within one hundred yards of the residence of W. H. Gray, on the [illegible] nine farm. From there to Astoria, by the new road will be about seven miles.

The Eugene Guard of last Saturday has this: "Judge Prim has rendered his opinion on the demurrers to the complaints in the railroad cases argued before him here last spring. He sustained the demurrer, holding that the contract on which these [illegible] are founded is void, as being against public policy. The suits were brought by Mr. Holladay to recover subscriptions to the railroad subsidy."

At the request of the Assistant District Superintendent of the American Bible Society for Oregon, by Rev. P. C. Hetzler, the Executive Committee of the Lane County Bible Society met at Mr. J. A. Winter's place of business in Eugene City, and after hearing a statement from Mr. Hetzler, of his plan of [illegible] and manner of [illegible] the [illegible], the Committee voted to approve the plan, and promised their hearty co-operation with Rev. They sent a quantity of the ore to Boise City, and had an assay made by the U. S. A[illegible] at that place. There were two [illegible] one showing $31 68 gold and $204 80 silver, $235 70 per ton; and the other showing [illegible] gold and $112 48 silver, $174 50 per ton. So it will be seen that the two [illegible] over $200 per ton. We [illegible] that the ore sent to Boise City for [illegible] was [illegible] sample of the ledge. If so, it shows it to be a very rich one, as there are [illegible] few ledges [illegible] will [illegible] up $200 per ton.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Notwithstanding the denial made by a paper [illegible], edited by a personal friend of Senator [illegible], there is a movement looking to the selection of [illegible] person in place of Carpenter as President of the Senate pro tem., as the gentleman will find out when Congress meets. Taking the word of several Senators who have recently been in the city as an index, the return of Senator Anthony to his old position as President pro tem. is more than probable.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—General Butler authorizes a denial of the published statement that he is organizing a Government Caucus which will nominate the officers for the next House of Representatives. He declines emphatically against giving any [illegible] connected with the Credit Mobilier transaction positions on standing Committees, his object being to punish Dawes and other members who opposed his Gubernatorial campaign in Massachusetts last summer.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—To-day, in consequence of some irregularity, a workman named Toey, employed at the Western White-lead Works, found it necessary to descend into one of the vats. As soon as he had gone a few steps he was overcome by carbonic acid gas and fell to the bottom. Four other men went to his rescue. They were also overcome and only rescued in an insensible condition. Next Jacob Snyder went down. He also fell, and when taken out to the Episcopal Hospital it was thought he could not survive. Toey was taken out dead and his body removed to his residence.

CARL SCHURZ.

A NEW MOVE IN CHICAGO POLITICS—CARL SCHURZ DESIRES THE LEADERSHIP OF THE ILLINOIS GERMANS.

[Special Dispatch to the New York Times.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Local politics in this city are assuming new complications. It is said that Senator Carl Schurz, of Missouri, intends to remove to Chicago after the expiration of his term of office. He is looking for a new field in which to operate, and Chicago appears promising. Horace White, managing editor of the Tribune, worships Schurz, and, therefore, the Senator will have an organ. The Senator has still another agency in the person of a brother-in-law named Jussen, at one time connected with the Customs. These two men, White and Jussen, are working to have Schurz adopted as the leader of the Germans in Illinois. It is uphill work, for the cynical Senator has recently been repudiated by them. The main idea is to create a revolt against Mr. A. C. Hessing, the Chicago leader of the Germans, and it is hoped to bring this about before Carl's term shall expire, and if the scheme succeeds he will immediately appear as a claimant for the successorship.

MORE ENOCH ARDEN.—Denver has an Enoch Arden case. A woman married during the absence of her husband, and the new couple continued housekeeping at the old stand. The first husband took it in his head to return to the scene of his former happiness, and wanted to make his reappearance a surprise. He choose the dead of night to enter his old domicile, by a back way which he knew. Reaching his wife's chamber, he soon discovered that things had changed. The woman and her second choice were there, and the man opened out an arsenal which he had under cover of the pillow, whereupon the intruder beat a hasty retreat, with several shots flying after him, leaving that house by the same route he came. He went off and armed himself to the teeth with knive and pistols, came back, walked straight past his former residence without even knocking at the door, and left town. He is supposed to have realized that there was other [illegible] in the world, and he had but one life to lose.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCT. 29, 1873.

AN INDIGNANT PARSEE.

In olden time the penny contribution for the poor heathen of the Orient was much more in vogue than now. Missionary Day in childhood's calendar was the periodic occasion upon which the civilized youngster who amused himself by pelting inoffensive Chinamen on week days, mechanically deposited with the graveyard deacon such fractions of the circulating medium as had been set apart for the heathen groping in darkness. The story of Juggernaut and the distracting [illegible] representing the Hindoo mother of the period flinging her babe into [illegible] typified by the jaws of some huge [illegible], and the harassing narrative of the returned missionary with his tiger-skin, his tale of danger in the bungalow [illegible] his enlivening quotations from Origen or Celsus these were some of the excellent methods by which youthful ardor in the missionary cause was fired.

Until within a few years it was an accepted belief that the Hindoo occupied an intermediate station between civilized [illegible] and the beasts of his jungle. The [illegible] in England of Chunder Sen, several years since, constrained us to question the [illegible] of our old prejudice. This [illegible] Hindoo was, in every regard, the highest type of the thorough gentleman. His social qualities, aside from a few unimportant national eccentricities, [illegible] quite above those of the average [illegible]. He presented the philosophy [illegible] in its most attractive light, [illegible] havoc with the Juggernaut and [illegible] traditions and al[illegible] interpreted the religion of [illegible] in such earnestness and [illegible] of spirit, that it lost its most re[illegible] and became something [illegible] superstition. A PARSEE.

The indignant Parsee challenges the Christian missionaries "to show their [illegible] on one in every twenty thousand of the population of India." Coming from a man of erudition and high order of ability, one would think that the challenge should not pass unheeded.

EXTORTION ON THE CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD.

In the whole range of history there can be found no parallel for the oppressive [illegible] management of American [illegible]. Built with the people's money, [illegible] in the building by the armed [illegible] of the people, [illegible] they [illegible] anointed tyrant of modern days. In every Western State this galling condition of affairs exists. In every State the people are, apparently, without peaceful remedy. This story of arbitrary rule is told day in and day out, but neither prayer nor threat lifts a feather's weight of the burden. It has been said that these things are getting monotonous. To the careless and indifferent they may be monotonous, but those who suffer the wrongs incident to this state of affairs cannot afford to loose interest in them.

In the struggle between the people of California and that gigantic monopoly known as the Central Pacific Railway Company, the independent press of that State deals some trenchant blows. Our readers may remember that several weeks ago our Eastern dispatches stated that the freight rates from San Francisco to Elko were greater than the rates from Chicago to Elko. This assertion was denied at the time by the California railway organs. But the charge was proven true. The S. F. Bulletin of October 24th furnishes another example of the extortionate charges of the Central Pacific Company. The Bulletin says:

The Central Pacific Railroad now charge $18 per ton, or $180 per car load, for carrying scrap iron from Reno to San Francisco, a distance of 201 miles. This charge Mr. Corning, the Assistant General Superintendent, attempts to justify because of the steep grades of the Livermore and Sierra Nevada mountains. Yesterday the Company obtained judgment against four citizens, sureties of a coal merchant, for $2,171 86, for the transportation of eighteen car loads or 180 tons of coal from the Rocky mountains to San Francisco. Of this amount, $198 or $11 per car load, was paid by the Central Pacific to the Union Pacific Railroad Company for carriage of the coal over its portion of the road from Carbon to Ogden, 376 miles. That is to say, the Union Pacific carried 180 tons of coal 376 miles for $108, being little more than one dollar per ton for the whole distance. The charges of the Central Pacific for carrying the 180 tons over their road from Ogden to San Francisco, 881 miles, were $1,973 86. This is within a fraction of $11 per ton. Scrap iron and coal both belong to about the same class of freight. Yet here we have coal transported 881 miles, Livermore and Sierra Nevada grades included, for $11 per ton, while scrap iron must pay $18 per ton for 292 miles one-third of the distance. We say nothing of the one dollar per ton charges of the Union Pacific for 376 miles, from Carbon to Ogden, bere [illegible] the two companies may be [illegible] to act independently. Can such discriminations be justified, and is it not time that Congress and the Legislature of California interested, and put freight rates upon an equitable basis?

THE NEW YORK TREASURY THIEF.

Chas. H. Phelps has stolen $300,000 from the Treasury of the State of New York. It is the same old story. "All of his acquaintances regarded him, up to the time of the discovery of the present defalcation, as a man of the strictest integrity. They say he is the last man whom they would have suspected of being dishonest." Of course; that is always the stereotyped phrase.

Phelps was [illegible] of the State Treasury Department. His method of operating was of the boldest character. When he received the drafts of the county [illegible] for the payment of taxes, he would take them to the Albany banks in which the Treasury funds were kept, and on his own endorsement cash them. This was contrary to the express provisions of the statute, which requires that all drafts shall be indorsed by the Treasurer or his deputy. The District Attorney alleges that the defendant [illegible], under two or three fictitious names within the past six months. It is now said that if the general book-keeper in the Controller's office had vigilantly performed the duties for which his office was specially created, the embezzlement could not have occurred. This book-keeper—George E. Seeley—has been suspended by Controller Hopkins, pending the examination. Phelps has been engaged for several months in endeavoring to make a large fortune in the shortest possible space of time. To accomplish this, he used large sums of money, changing his name at intervals to conceal his thieving. It looks as though he had heard of our Senator, for in one instance, at least, he dropped his surname—Phelps—and endorsed a $15,000 draft, "Chas. Hudson, Cashier." He may have had visions of the Senatorial toga. The liability of the banks that cashed his checks is undoubted. They have to pay dearly for their woful ignorance of the law.

Of course there is the usual attempt to fix up a plausible excuse for the crime. In addition to the previous good character of the criminal, it is urged that he is the victim of sharpers who led him into his "irregularities," and who had more in the end out of his thefts than he could have made. He was "a gentleman of excellent antecedents," as we have remarked. "He had no expensive habits known to his friends in Albany, and his wife, who is spoken of as a very estimable and intelligent lady, says he was accustomed to hand her his whole salary, $200, at the end of each month, and she paid all the bills."

This is the story of Phelps' crime as far as known. Our New York exchanges already begin to hint that he will be tried for "breach of trust." It is urged that there can be no larceny, because "all the drafts sent to the Treasury Department legally came into his hands." His speedy acquittal is predicted.

The editor of the Richmond Enquirer has taken down a suit of ancient armor from the walls of his sanctum and he makes its joints rattle in a terrific manner. Hughes, the Republican candidate for Governor, is the man he is trying to frighten out of his wits. He tells Hughes that while Virginia is "lovely in her smiles, her darkening brow is to-day portentious of the sweeping doom of Radicalism, and the coming storm is already howling with hideous destruction in the rear of wandering Hughes and his body-guard." "The driving hail pelts Hughes wherever he goes." "Does he lift his feeble voice in the mountains?" "Does he try the fish country?" Kemper "impales him at Warrenton," Braxton "tears him to small shreds at King George," Douglas "chases up the fragments to Fredericksburg without being able to catch them." Even the editor of the Enquirer cannot gaze upon this picture of poor Hughes' flight and suffering without some touch of pity. He says: "It will make the blood run cold to see the mangled remains of those disinherited children of Virginia fall stunned and blackened from the bosses of the old mother's buckler. The voice of the people, the great, free and true people of Virginia, is now lifted up. Hear it, and stand from under all who would [illegible] faction." [illegible] to stand from under after this warning, he is in great danger of hearing something drop.

We suppose an excellent sermon could be preached from this text, which we clip from the Chicago Times:

"The Old Testament is a dead weight upon an enlightened Christianity. It relates to a Jehovah who was simply a barbarous and bloodthirsty demigod. He was almost everlastingly engaged in inciting a little band of half savages and wholly robbers, called the Jews, to the work of wholesale assassination and plunder. He seemed to create nations solely for the purpose of having the pleasure of seeing them smitten hip and thigh by his 'chosen people'—a band of cut-throats, who, if in existence to-day, would be hung, shot, guillotined, or otherwise exterminated as enemies of human kind."

It may not be thought strange that a community in which such blasphemies are uttered, editorially, should share the fate of the elder Gomorrah.

The Supreme Court of the United States, on the 20th inst., affirmed the decision of the lower court in appeal of the New York Central Railroad from the decision of the Circuit Court of the Southern District of New York, awarding damages to a drover named Lockwood, who received injuries while riding on a drover's pass. The court allows payment of interest at usual rates in such cases in New York, and sustains the rulings below, that the contract by defendant and the pass issued by him, were no impediments in the way of recovering, if he was not guilty of neglect of ordinary care and prudence.

This is the way the Chicago Inter-Ocean alludes to a current rumor: "A new daily paper is projected in the city of Washington, to be edited by those suple youths, Alexander H. Stephens and Herschel V. Johnson. Mr. William Allen, of Ohio, is to be engaged as city editor, and Santa Anna will have charge of the foreign department. They are organizing a corps of survivors of the war of 1812 to act as carriers."

A meeting has been called for the 26th of November, to be held in St. Louis, for the purpose of organizing a National Press Association. All journalists in the country are invited to attend. If the invitation is accepted, and all put in an appearance, who will "get out the papers"?

MARRIED.

Will take place on the evenings of the 28th, 29th and 30th October,

AT

METROPOLIS HALL,

VANCOUVER, W. T.

THE ENCOURAGEMENT WHICH THE SISTERS have heretofore received, makes them hope that on this, more than on any former occasion, they have a right to expect from their numerous friends and patrons a most generous response to their earnest appeal in behalf of the SEVENTY LITTLE WAIFS depending on them for food and raiment. They think it superfluous at this time to allude to the heavy expenses they are now incurring in the erection of a shelter needed to carry out their charitable purposes, and as many have thereby received an increase in their worldly stores, it is confidently hoped that they will generously come forward and share it liberally with the poor destitute Orphan.

MARY AND I.

"Twas evening in May, and the soft zephyr sighed
Through branches low bending above
My Mary and I, as we wandered along,
And whisper'd of beauty and love.
"We'll make us a nest like the birdlings," I said,
"And never shall part any more."
"Oh yes," she replied, "and can furnish it nice,
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE."

"Fair creature, there's many a wealthier man
Would gladly have you for a bride,
But no one can love you more fondly than I—
My treasure, my beauty, and pride!
Oh, had I a mansion, with carpets of gold
And silver, I'd cover the floor!"
But, smiling, she said, "You can purchase the best
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

"I'll spread you a couch upon which to recline
When evening shall call us to rest,
Of the fleeciest down"—"but," she said with a sigh,
"I like a hair mattress the best."
"Then so it shall be, love, and tables inlaid,
And seats from some far distant shore."
"Oh no," she exclaimed, "They have elegant sets
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE."

"But, Mary, alas, I must sadly confess
My m[illegible] are but slender as yet;
To furnish a house in the style you demand
Would hopelessly plunge me in debt—
To ask you to share my poor lodgings and board
Is something that I should deplore."
She said with a smile, "You can buy very cheap
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE."

"To-morrow, then, love, let us journey along
To the corner of Alder and Front street—
'Tis numbers 98 and 100, (river side,)
Where lovers so happily meet,
How many fond souls might be severed for years
From those they so fondly adore,
Were it not for the beautiful furniture they have,
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

They have marble top bureaus and elegant sets
Of Bedroom furniture new,
With center tables and what-nots and mirrors great,
And an endless variety of chairs, not a few.
They do a cash business, and with money in hand
To purchase every style of furniture lower,
Are able to supply all the public demand
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

We went, Mary and I, and can I ever forget
The pleasure that beamed in her face,
As she gazed at the marvels of beauty displayed
In HURGREN & SHINDLER'S place!
We furnished our home in an elegant style;
Been married a twelve month or more,
And Mary is singing this song to her babe,
Of HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

The Daily Oregonian.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCT. 29, 1873.

CITY.

A LUCKY BURGLAR.—About six weeks ago two families left the Eastern States and started for Oregon. They crossed the continent together, and in due time arrived safely in Portland. On reaching this city, one of the families leased a house in the lower part of the city. The other family, consisting of man and wife, took rooms in the same house and boarded with their friends. The gentleman who was boarding brought to this city about $2,600 in currency, which he kept in one of his large traveling trunks. A few weeks subsequent to his arrival in Portland, this gentleman took a trip to Southern Oregon, leaving behind his wife and all his money. He was absent about two weeks, and returned just prior to the late election. One evening, a few days ago, both the gentlemen of the house—host and boarder—started out to take a quiet promenade through the city. Shortly after the departure of the husbands, the wives also proposed to have an evening stroll to themselves. The house was left deserted for a short time. During the absence of the members some enterprising burglar, who had evidently developed an optic for "biz," quietly made his advent through a window. The instincts of his profession naturally led him to advance towards that large, pretentious traveling trunk. Luckily for him he found the key in the hole. To turn that key was the work of an instant. Deftly he slid the bolt, lifted the ponderous lid, and proceeded leisurely to investigate the contents. Still more fortunate for that burglar, the greenbacks were all in the trunk. Just how long it required for the thief to clutch in his greedy digits the currency and vacate the premises, no one can tell; but when the promenaders returned they found that the gentleman had retired, and had forgotten to leave behind the modest sum of $2,600. The owner of the currency has additional reasons for regretting the loss of his money, as greenbacks are likely to be at par soon. The lack of exercise of ordinary degrees of caution procured a burglar a heavy haul.

A SHAM GHOST.—An old farmer named Rankin, who lives over near the Columbia, has been troubled considerably of late by some breachy cattle which belong to a neighbor. These cattle, by their frequent predatory raids, sorely vexed the soul of Mr. Rankin, and he determined to free himself of their destructive visits. He had often heard of the famous ghost of Hamlet, besides of many other ghosts of far less notoriety, and he conceived the brilliant idea of essaying the difficult role of playing ghost on his own hook. About dusk one evening last week, Rankin observed several head of his neighbor's cattle invading his premises. Thirsting for vengeance, he clad himself in a long white sheet and started forth. It was about dusk when the sham ghost issued. The cattle were too wise to be gulled by such a sham apparition. The trick was too thin, and instead of taking to their heels and fleeing, the cattle elevated heads and tails and made a straight dash for the ghost. Mr. Rankin discovering that the cattle did not run, began to retreat. The cattle followed, and finally pressed so hotly on his flying footsteps that he cast aside the windy ghost and took to a friendly tree. After treeing Rankin, the cattle hung around the tree for some time as if to punish him for his attempted imposition. He now concludes that strong, high fences are better proof against breachy stock than playing ghost. This story is not so intensely thrilling as the one got up by the News about an apparition, but it enjoys the luxury of being true.

A STARLIGHT B. B. CLUB.—One would naturally be led to suppose that our base ballists should be satiated with the labors and excitements of the past four months, as the season has been uncommonly lively, and many warm contests were held. But it appears that the [illegible] any untamed ardor of our youths has not yet cooled. It is confidentially asserted on the authority of one of the [illegible] youths, in [illegible] manly bosom burns an unquenchable desire to excel in this national game, and who shall in this connection be [illegible] here for [illegible] like Poe's raven who asserts that there is a club in Portland who practice these [illegible] when the stars faintly twinkle in the firmament, and pale Luna doesn't shed her silvery rays worth a cent. Like our juvenile informant, we shall be ready to wager that [illegible] bit, which is now safely [illegible] in our left vest pocket, that this Starlight Club will be [illegible] in any contests the College and [illegible] clubs to the contrary notwithstanding. Our ingenious youth declares that "they are bound to win," and why not? He says that in these nocturnal practicings, the batters are frequently muddled about just when the ball is coming, and the "flies" are a little difficult to "corral" sometimes. Look to your laurels, ye knights of the ball and bat.

FRIGHTENED.—A horse attached to one of the [illegible] cars became frightened yesterday at the [illegible] engine which was pumping out the cistern at the intersection of Stark and First streets, and came near running away. A large crowd was standing on the track near the engine, which contributed in no small degree to the fright of the animal. The driver sung out "Clear away there," an order which the crowd was not slow in obeying. Just as the animal came opposite the machine it sprang to one side and narrowly escaped capsizing the car. By dexterous management on the part of the driver, the accident was averted, and the frightened horse brought under subjugation. At the time a number of ladies were in the car. Had it capsized, the results would no doubt have been quite serious if not fatal to some of the passengers.

ANNUAL FANCY FAIR.—Commencing with last evening, the Sisters of Charity of the House of Providence, in Vancouver, will hold their Annual Fancy Fair this and to-morrow evenings. The Fair will be given at the Metropolis Hall, and the proceeds are to be devoted to the Orphan Asylum now under the management of the Sisters. There are at present about seventy orphans, who are furnished comfortable homes at the Asylum, and provided with all the necessaries of life, besides being educated. It is to supply the constant demand for means that the Fair will be given. A large and rare assortment of fancy and needle work will be on exhibition. As before stated, the Fair will be extended through this evening, and also to-morrow evening.

PATIENTS DISCHARGED AND RECEIVED.—There has been quite a number of patients discharged and received at the Asylum within the last few weeks. About three weeks ago there were 185 patients—males and females. Week before last five patients were discharged, all in a few days. This reduced the number to 180. During the week following seven new patients were received. Since then several more have been discharged, and some three or four received. At present the number of patients is 187.

SOCIABLE.—This is the evening set apart by the North Portland M. E. Sunday School for their first sociable. It will take place at their hall, corner of D and North-ninth streets. A good social time will be had, no doubt, by those who attend. Professor and Mrs. McGibeny, with their children, will add to the interest of the occasion by favoring the company present with some choice selections of vocal and instrumental music. Refreshments will be provided for all who attend.

TIGHTENING FISH BARS.—Early yesterday several men were engaged in clearing out the earth from the spaces along the railroad on Fourth street, where the ends of the rails meet and are attached by means of fish bars, bolts and screws. The constant jar and vibrations produced by the passing trains loosen the nuts, thus rendering it necessary to pass over the track at intervals to tighten up the bolts and make the road secure. This required precaution was being taken yesterday.

NEW HOUSE FOR PROTECTION.—The work on the new house for Protection Company No. 4 is being pushed as vigorously toward completion as circumstances will permit. The masonry work has progressed as far as it is possible, until the iron castings have been finished. A number of iron frontings have been cast at the Willamette Iron Works, and the remainder will be completed by the close of the present week.

LECTURE.—Chaplain Van Horn was listened to by a crowded house last evening, in Vancouver, in his description of the Battles of Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge. The Chaplain spoke one hour and fifty minutes [illegible] completely absorbed with [illegible]

GUILTY OF LARCENY.—Last evening a Chinaman named Lee Quong was arrested, charged with the larceny of a chisel. This property was stolen some weeks ago, but there being no person to claim the property or prosecute the case, the Chinaman was, as a matter of course, discharged. Yesterday the property was identified by the owner, who in the meantime was ignorant of the whereabouts of the chisel or the real thief. A warrant of arrest was sworn out at once and the Chinaman lodged in jail.

ENGINE HOUSE.—One of the rooms in the brick row on the west side of First street, between Taylor and Salmon, is being fitted up for the use of Hook & Ladder Co. No. 1. The old doors bearing the name of the Company on the transom have been adjusted, and in a short time the room will be in readiness for occupation by the "Hooks." Since the fire the carriage has been housed in Willamette Engine Company's House, where the Hook & Ladder Company have held their meetings.

DESERTER ARRESTED.—A man named Edward Thomas was arrested last evening and lodged in jail, on a charge of attempting to desert from the vessel Spirit of the Dawn. This sailor, we learn, signed articles of shipping in San Francisco to go on the above named bark. He came up on the steamer last evening, but the vessel no sooner touched the wharf than Thomas attempted to desert. He will probably be sent below in a few days, in custody of an officer, to join the ship.

WAIVED AN EXAMINATION.—John Smith, of whose natural moral obliquity we made mention yesterday, was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday charged with forgery. On being called, John arose with dignity and remarked, "I do not desire to be tried in this court, as I want justice." The court wisely thought that the modest request ought to be granted, and John got all the justice he wanted. He accordingly handed him over to the tender care of the grand jury.

MORE SLATE.—The assertion was made yesterday that the new Custom House would be the only building in the State which would be covered with a slate roof. But the statement, it appears, was a trifle premature. The Portland Gas Company have received lately a considerable quantity of slate, which will be used in covering their works that are soon to be commenced and finished by next spring.

BALLOT BOXES RETURNED.—As there will be no election until next summer, all the ballot boxes which belong to the several precincts in the county and city have been brought into the County Clerk's office for safe keeping until they are to be again used as receptacles in which the popular verdict of the "dear peops" is to be safely deposited. As yet three precincts have failed to return the ballot boxes.

MUTINOUS CONDUCT.—On complaint of the Captain of the schooner H. L. Tiernan, yesterday morning, a sailor named Wm. Merrett was arrested and lodged in jail. Merrett, it seems, became intoxicated, and coming on board was guilty of disorderly and mutinous conduct, by refusing to obey the orders of his superiors. He was taken to jail where he will remain until this morning.

HELD TO ANSWER.—Charley Lung, who, in a frenzy of jealous rage drove a knife into the shoulder of one Ah Ning, a Celestial of inoffensive character and good habits, on Sunday evening, was examined in the Police Court yesterday morning. He was held to answer the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. The matter will be investigated by the Grand Jury.

MORE VESSELS.—By the Astoria boat which arrived last evening, we learn that three more foreign vessels are now in the river, all in ballast, and under charter to carry away cargoes of grain to Europe. These vessels are the Disco, Fiefshire and Santa Rosa. All of the three, we believe, came from South American ports. They will be at this port in a few days.

LECTURED AT SALEM.—Rev. George Burton, Rector of the Trinity Church of this city, lectured last evening at Reed's Opera House, Salem. His subject was "The Relation of Mind and Matter." Concerning the lecture and lecturer the Statesman says: "The field is a broad one, and Mr. Burton is eminently qualified to treat it."

OFFICE CONSTRUCTED.—The wharf where the Willamette River Transportation Co.'s boats land, is undergoing alterations and repairs at the hands of several carpenters. Among various improvements we observe two neat, handsome offices in process of construction—one up stairs and the other down.

PUMPING OUT.—The old fire steam engine, belonging to Multnomah No. 2, was engaged yesterday in pumping out the cistern at the intersection of Stark and First streets. Considerable sediment had accumulated, which will be cleaned out before the cistern is again filled.

SMOKE STACK UP.—All the machinery, boiler, etc., have been placed in the hull of the tug Sedalia, her upper works are finished, and the smoke stack was raised a few days since. She is rapidly approaching completion, and will be ready for the trial trip very soon.

NO TREASURE.—Within the last month a large amount of treasure has been received here by the San Francisco steamer. Every steamer brought more or less. However, the steamer which arrived here last evening brought no treasure.

REPAIRED.—The steamer Calliope has been lying at her wharf for several days undergoing some needed repairs to her boiler and machinery. She went down the river yesterday morning on her usual trip.

ADMITTED TO CITIZENSHIP.—John B. A. Reivert, a native of France, was admitted to all the rights, privileges and immunities of American citizenship yesterday, in the United States District Court.

WITHOUT DATE.—No business of importance was transacted yesterday by the United States District Court. One person was admitted to citizenship, after which the Court adjourned without date.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL.

At last accounts Fulford and his troupe were playing along the Sound bound Victoriaward.

Madame Laura Agnes Stevenson, the prima donna, is still delighting the Victorians with her concerts.

Vivian and troupe having given entertainments at the Dalles and Vancouver, are en route for the Sound.

Prof. C. B. Plummer is in Eastern Oregon, and Prof. J. D. White is on the Sound. Both are "elocutionizing."

A San Francisco paper of a late date says that a letter has recently been received from Australia from which it learns that Billy Emerson and company have made a tremendous hit, under George Coppins' management. The same pleasing fact is also communicated in regard to Mrs. F. M. Bates. The numerous friends of that favorite actress here will be gratified to learn of her success.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Observe the special sale notice of A. B. Richardson in another column.

If you have weak eyes, go to J. B. Miller's and select a pair of the patent spectacles advertised in another column. Furthermore, while at his place examine his stock of jewelry, clocks, etc. You will certainly find what you want among the goods he will show you.

One of the most useful machines for a good housewife is a knitting machine, one that can do its work in an excellent manner, and at the same time do it with dispatch. The Lamb Knitting Machine, advertised by Albert Vail, General Agent, First street, near Yamhill, is a novelty and should be seen to be appreciated.

Emil, Lowenstein & Co., recently burned out by the great fire, have removed their Stock of Carpets, Curtains, Coverings, etc. to No. 87 FRONT STREET, between Washington and Alder, where they can be found, selling off the entire Stock AT COST, in order to start soon in new quarters with an Entire New Stock. All persons indebted to the [illegible] are requested to call at their temporary place of [illegible] and settle up.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Council meeting this evening.

The fair at Vancouver attracts attention.

Oysters are cheaper than ever this season.

Steamer arrived shortly after 4 P. M. yesterday.

Mr. Foster brought up the express on the steamer.

The bark Spirit of the Dawn and Jane A. Falkinburg are both ready for sea.

The second social party was held at Turn Verein Hall on Monday evening.

The busy saw hummeth nightly at the mill on the eastside opposite Morrison street.

The Board of Delegates will appoint judges for the Firemen's election on Saturday evening.

It is rumored that the Clarendon Hotel is to be opened shortly by two well known Bonifaces.

One hundred and fifty tons of wheat came down from up the Columbia on the Emma Hayward last evening.

Moonlight nights, always hailed with delight by loving couples who promenade Fourth street, will soon arrive.

"The Fall of Man and the Twelve Patriarchs," was the subject of W. H. Cheney's lecture at Dashaway Hall, San Francisco, one night last week.

The bark Rival arrived at San Francisco on the morning of the 24th, having been eighteen days out—making the round trip in that time—the quickest of the season.

Says the S. F. Chronicle: Isaac Barman, of Portland, Oregon, has recently patented a hitching-block for horses, which consists of a hollow block of iron, of any desired weight, into which the hitching strap is inserted; the strap pulls out like a tape-measure and flies back with a spring.

OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

The principals interested in the boating match met last evening, by appointment, and partially effected arrangements for the coming contest. The time set is Thanksgiving Day (Nov. 27th.) the race to take place between the hours of three and nine o'clock in the afternoon. It was agreed that the boats should start from the O. S. N. Company's wharf, taking a southerly course to and around Ross' Island, and return a distance of, as near as can be ascertained, five miles. The boats entered are the Dreadnaught and Occidental. The crews have not been named yet. Another meeting will be held on Saturday evening, when it is expected the final arrangements will be effected.

COLUMBIA RIVER FISHERIES.—It has been said that the harvest of the sea is greater than that of the land, and if this be true of the sea, it is also frequently true of the great rivers that empty into it. Away north, where the Columbia, with its mighty tributaries, drain the valleys of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, the uncultured wealth of the waters is far greater than the cultured wealth of the land, and its development is going on at an astonishing rate. No other products of these regions, save lumber, at all equals in importance or value that of the salmon-fishing interest, and if it continues to increase as it has done for the past two or three years, it will soon leave even that behind. During the nine months ending with September, the value of the export by sea and overland by rail, was not less than three millions of dollars, and so great was the demand for the markets of London and New York, that the supplies in this city were hardly ever ahead of the demand. And now we learn that three new curing establishments are to be added to those already existing, which will increase their capacity by 42,000 cases yearly, and add at least half a million dollars to the value of their yearly product. If conducted with judgment, and so as not to exhaust the breeding source of the supply, the salmon fisheries of the Columbia may in future years support as many people as do any of the great fisheries of Europe or America, and be the source of almost incalculable wealth to that region.—S. F. Chronicle, Oct. 25th.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.—A dispatch from Washington of date Oct. 17th says: The Washington Sentinel, in its issue of to-day says that there is no longer any doubt that Jay Cooke & Co. look to the next Congress for relief. Their principal object now is to procrastinate and to keep the matter in statu quo, and especially prevent any of their creditors from forcing them into bankruptcy. We have it from the very best authority that they will, as soon as Congress meets, throw up their charter of the Northern Pacific Railroad, and turn the whole concern, the unsold lands and the railroad, as far as finished, with stock and material, over to the Government. Of course thereto will be added the millions which they owe, and the payment of which the Government is to assume. They will thereby be entirely relieved, it is claimed, from all liabilities, and Uncle Sam will satisfy their angry and indignant creditors. The story may be a little strong just now, but probably has foundation.

Don't go home to-night without having previously made arrangements with John O'Neil & Co. to do up a fall suit in their own peculiar style, which is quite popular, as the elegant suits daily seen on the streets from this house will attest. Mr. Scharf, of the firm, has been to San Francisco. That is sufficient. Be sure to call and select from the latest arrivals, which are new and novel. The place is 93 First street.

The variety of Foreign and Domestic Fruits to be seen at W. ASCHENHEIM'S, 120 First Street, is immense for this time of the year. Go and see it.

OREGON CITY ITEMS.

Our regular correspondent sends the following under date of the 28th inst.:

Mechanics are quite busy now, carpenters especially.

Politics very quiet just now. Not much doing in that line.

Messrs. C. Pope & Co. have their fine new brick under roof now. It looks well, and will be a credit to the city.

The river is quite low, and it is with difficulty that the boats get over the rapids at the mouth of the Clackamas.

The steamer Alice has been keeping a number of hands engaged for more than a month. She is approaching completion rapidly, and will be a fine craft when finished.

We visited the county bridge over the Clackamas, the other day, and pronounce it a model in design and workmanship. If the Pacific Bridge Company does all its work in this manner, it will need no other advertisement.

The Oregon City Students' Law Club is said to be in a flourishing condition. It numbers eight members. The President is H. H. Johnson; Secretary, E. L. Eastham. Its regular meetings are on Tuesday evening of each week.

Mr. A. Noltner has just returned from a trip East, and he assures us he returns to Oregon better satisfied than ever before with it just as it is. No living East is the subject of his story. He had, however, a very pleasant trip, and looks much invigorated.

Farmers in the country around are busy turning over the sod and putting in fall grain. When this becomes monotonous they bring a load of grain to town, and still get a dollar per bushel. They seem well satisfied. In fact, I have not heard a farmer growl for a month.

Mrs. Charman's new mansion on Main street, between Seventh and Eighth, is just receiving the finishing touches by the painters. It is one of the finest buildings in town, and reflects credit alike on the builders—Messrs. Bingman and Hedges—and the enterprising lady who owns it.

Not least in importance by way of improvements is the attention the Seminary grounds have been receiving lately. A new fence has been placed around the lot, a partition fence has been built, dividing the grounds into two play grounds, one for the girls, the other for the boys. New sidewalks have also been laid from Mr. Whitlock's residence to the Seminary, a thing much needed. The city fathers deserve credit for their enterprise in this direction, and their kindness will certainly be appreciated by the school.

OVERLAND JOURNEY TO SAN FRANCISCO

To the Editor of the Oregonian

I have never been in sympathy with that [illegible] dible hater of the sea who wished to thrash the author of "A Life on the Ocean Wave" If any person is willing to take the risks of howling storms and wild waves he ought to be allowed to sail and sing But we don't [illegible] any ourselves, and hence we left your beautiful city and ours, a few weeks ago in a rail car for our carriage, with an iron horse for our [illegible] The morning was one of those bright and [illegible] ones so common in our climate [illegible] the summer and autumn months when every one wears smiles, and feels so [illegible] and vigorous as to forget whether [illegible] ago is fifteen or fifty

As we looked back, Portland lay stretched out like a panorama, and with its sparkling river in front, its hills crowned with ever [illegible] in the background and far away the [illegible] of pure, eternal snow, the view was [illegible], even to less partial eyes than [illegible]

The fruitful valleys of the Wallamet and Umpqua rivers, though disrobed of their [illegible], shone brightly in the sunlight, and [illegible] to tell us of their great fertility and the [illegible] resulting therefrom These [illegible] are the objects of universal admiration [illegible] who understand the extent, beauty and [illegible] of Oregon, cannot but repel with [illegible] the unreasonable assertion that [illegible] valley is Oregon," while it is [illegible] that it is an important part of [illegible] and that it must for the present cast [illegible] other districts perhaps as fertile [illegible], which have no railroad or river [illegible]

[illegible] along we saw large quantities [illegible] at every station, awaiting its [illegible] conveyed to Portland We remem[illegible] can be [illegible], in their ut[illegible] nearly all fruits and vegeta[illegible] not exclusively tropical, and we [illegible] with such natural [illegible] is destined to become the [illegible] when the means [illegible] Its climate is [illegible] Without any of the [illegible] and cold peculiar to the East[illegible] we have still, we think, [illegible] neighbors in a [illegible] If we have [illegible] appreciate the [illegible] winter's frost [illegible] the mildness [illegible]

[illegible] CITY, Iowa, Oct 17—Mr J O Connor [illegible] is in the city He reports [illegible] pox very bad among the Indians at [illegible] Nebraska There are now about [illegible] and 30 deaths have so far oc[illegible] The [illegible] found affairs at the [illegible] demoralized in consequence He [illegible] Dr. Van Velzer, of Yankton to take [illegible] of the Agency There is [illegible] in the neighborhood, and Yank[illegible] not so far removed as to render it an in[illegible] among the panic-stricken [illegible]

She came upon a skulking Sioux, and by a dexterous movement drew a knife across [illegible] each causing the Indian to double up As the red came forward she grasped his hair and with another active movement relieved the [illegible] of his scalp There is no question [illegible] that squaw now is big medicine among [illegible] Troops have probably arrived at [illegible] of dog eat dog by this time and put [illegible] stop the fighting

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

TUESDAY EVENING, October 28 1873.

Gold in New York to-day 108.

Portland Legal Tender rates 90½ buying 91½ selling

Gold bars are quotable at [illegible] 750 fine

Exchange on San Francisco ¾ of 1 ℔ cent dis count.

Liverpool Wheat 12s [illegible] club 12s [illegible]

The general tendency in financial affairs in our midst is manifestly toward greater ease than [illegible] existed for the past month and a half but yet [illegible] rates of interest and discounts are [illegible] who seeks to borrow will find generally that the lenders control the market and he must accede to their demands Short accommodations however are quite readily obtained but long time loans [illegible] with but little favor Collections from the interior are apparently slower in coming to hand than the supposed [illegible] circumstances [illegible] natural part of our population [illegible] justify if all people were disposed to cancel their indebted ness as rapidly as possible The general impression obtains however that besides [illegible] the country is in a very favorable condition and that with the completion of the work of putting in the fall crops the rise of the river to a navigable point and the return to ordinary channels of the large sums recently invested in wheat and other products times will be better and all branches of commerce display more animation.

Advices of most recent dates from the East indicate no important change [illegible] New York money does not yet move freely but is limited supply for daily requirements Call loans are made upon prime securities at 7 per cent currency to the same figure in gold and commission [illegible] in many instances First class commercial paper is quoted by dealers at 11 to 18 per cent per annum discount, with variable rates above and below these figures

London advices represent consols as firmer and American securities steady with no material change in quotations The Bank of England rate of discount is 5 per cent, with money 1 per cent lower in the open market Gold is still coming to this country £500,000 having been shipped on Saturday before last.

Wheat Exports.

The aggregate shipments of Wheat from our port since the 1st of August cannot be exactly stated as a no inconsiderable portion is sent to the north ward, of which no account is kept. The total shipments for foreign countries, mostly to England have been 155,400 centals including a portion of one cargo which consisted of Flour and counting the same as so much Wheat, this Flour being shipped on the bark Spirit of the Dawn for Liverpool The shipments of Wheat to San Francisco in the same period have been greater than in any former year [illegible] near 125,000 [illegible] Flour, to the amount of 4[illegible]00 barrels, has also been sent hence for the same port. Shipments to the North of Flour and Wheat have at least been equivalent to the estimated amount of 30,000 centals. The total of these several [illegible] shows our exports so far during the current harvest year to have been equivalent to 400,000 centals of Wheat of the value on shipboard of at least $900,000 The quantity now on vessels and in store at this point, will nearly double this, so that by the 1st of November we shall have shipped the large quantity of 1,800 000 centals. Against 75 000 centals exported to Europe during the first quarter of last year, which was really Oregon a first great wheat year our exports this year will in all probability, amount to very nearly 200,000 centals. Our [illegible] has been worked off much more rapidly than ever before in our commercial history and the prospect now is that notwithstanding the large yield of 1873 but little of it comparatively will be carried over.

[illegible]

The import entries in New York embracing foreign dry goods and general merchandise for the week ending October 18th, were $7,219,707, against [illegible] for the corresponding week last year. [illegible] exports of [illegible] produce, other than gold and silver, were $6,976,191, [illegible] $6,925 767 same time in 1872. The exports of gold and silver, $527-651, against $1[illegible]5,754 same time in 1872. The customs [illegible] paid into the New York office of the United [illegible] for the week were $1,843,000, against [illegible] 000 same time in 1872.

There appears no sign of [illegible] in the accessions to our population from European countries The number of immigrants who arrived at Castle Garden last year [illegible], and the number of arrivals [illegible] January indicate that the total for this [illegible] will be [illegible] below the unusually large total for 1872.
